

South Jersey's Team TRIumph

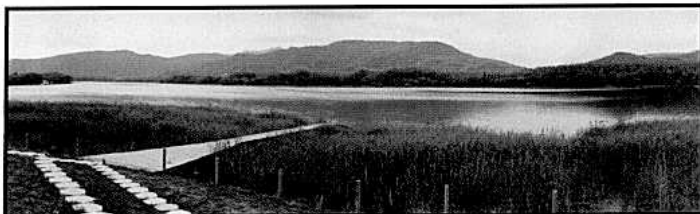

As many athletes in southern New Jersey can attest, there was a lack of multisport clubs in the area. Aiming to fill this void, Team TRIumph, based in Marlton, N.J., was born in January 2006 as the brainchild of local athletes

Jennifer Reagen, Maya Hunnewell and Jason Kilderry. Club treasurer Jennifer Reagen explains, "Understandably, so many clubs focus on the Philadelphia area or really competitive athletes. I'd run into endurance-sports participants, but we never seemed to connect formally. Our intention was to provide a social atmosphere for training and events with education along the way. It just grew from there."

In its first year, Team TRIumph has become USAT-registered and has attracted over 50 members, from Ironman participants to newbies. Athletes communicate the training plans and social events via a message board on the team's Web site. The team has also held nutrition and running clinics and has more educational clinics on its '07 calendar. These athletes also know how to have fun. There are pre-race pasta parties, post-race brunches, summer luaus, flag football and local happy hours.
